UNC Medical Library in Malawi

Using electronic resources at UNC Project Library (Photo: Susan Swogger)

HSL Librarian, Susan Swogger, at UNC Project Library in Malawi

Core Services

- Locally-hired reference librarian
- Up-to-date and organized print reference collection focused on clinical medicine, infectious diseases, HIV/AIDS, epidemiology, and maternal/child health
- Small, current print journal collection with an emphasis on infectious diseases
- Four computers with open high-speed internet access through a dedicated VSAT
- An array of organized online resources and research tools

But, we're not the only ones…

- nonprofits and special libraries (IntraHealth, RTI, etc.)
- pharma companies
- other academic institutions
- hospital libraries?
- public libraries?
- maybe you?

Starting with RDU, but plans to expand

We’re planning an un-Conference!

What?!?

- Unconferences bring together like-mindeds to focus on a theme.
- Active participation, attendees drive the meeting
- Law of two feet: Any person neither learning from nor contributing to a group discussion can walk to another session.

We’re planning an unConference!

An unConference is
- Scheduled
- Participant-driven agenda
- Structured
- Very productive
- Solution-oriented
- Professional
- Fun

An unConference is not
- Controlled chaos
- Hierarchal
- Just sitting around talking
- Passive listening
- Amateurish
- Boring

un-Conference Details

- Date: April/May 2010
- Who: Librarians in the Triangle area who work on global health
- Where: Somewhere in the Triangle (and probably online
- If you want to be involved, email us: hslglobal@unc.edu
