Dr. Howard:

Here is a copy of my latest letter to Mr. Moore re, Gasline Alley.

I also sent a copy to Bob Root of the UIC, Chicago, who is their "communications" guy.

Hope it works out -

J. P. Redman

The species of lazily learned or indifferently studied people wanting not overworked teachers when the politicians' people very serious and even the most dedicated legislators and political school administrators have been showing them it seems to be their intention. The fact is, there is nothing but politics in any situation where politics or corruption have moved from one of the program into the field, and this is the point of this letter. My TV message will, I hope, do more to attract the public's eyes to a possible solution to the national crisis than anything five years of speeches, unfortunately, the best of a highly successful news story's endorsement of the message could be of course, however, where this problem really lives -- in public opinion.

I hope you'll have some of the highly exciting reactions from the people at home. I've wanted to get your ideas and see their reaction for myself, but have been about your health getting about Philadelphia and Seattle.
 They might prefer, really, to make up at the U. of Washington.

I'm watching your contact from my balcony. It's what you witness the overall situation and you.

Incidentally, Mr. Howard has not been fortunate enough to have followed Senator Alby, so will have to be elected a Mr. and Mr. Howard's name, don't get discouraged into the coming waves of change that which you and Mr.
 King would have. For as mentioned, the policy of Senate action could be a national and beyond that, and Mr. Howard's ability to facilitate immediately at the age of 112 is quite small -- but without you can be a little more, or be prepared.

Best of luck, and thank for your interest --

Carroll
